

Whilst, I do not object to houses being built. Goodness knows we need them. But they should be built on areas that can cope.

There is no infrastructure for all these houses; even the roads are unsuitable.

Down right dangerous, I live in fear walking up Priests Lane with my grandchild.

The traffic is dangerous, so close to a narrow path on a very narrow road.

We don't even have any signs up regarding "30" mile speed limit.

You would be surprised at how many drivers do not even know it is "30" mile
